

Silver Surfers: Getting to grips with the Internet

Mark Windisch, Treasurer, LOPSG

When: Tuesday 27 May 2008
11.00am-1pm or 2.00pm-4.00pm

Where: Conference Room 10, City Hall, The Queen's Walk
London SE1 2AA

As part of an ongoing programme of information sharing sessions organised by the London Older People's Resource Facility in partnership with LOPSG, this taster demonstration will introduce you to the basic advantages of using the Internet:

- How to get yourself an email address
- Creating and sending emails
- Searching for information

Please note: this is a taster session on the Internet only and will not be covering word processing. For anyone interested in attending further training, information will be available for you to take away on courses taking place across London.

Who is it aimed at?

It will be a very basic introductory look at using the Internet and is aimed at older people with little or no experience at using a computer.

What is the format?

The session will be two hours long and you can book in for either the morning (11am-1pm) or the afternoon (2pm-4pm) session. Tea, coffee and biscuits will be provided.

How can I book?

Places are limited to eight and must be booked in advance by contacting Anna Roberts on 020 7785 3870 or anna.roberts@london.gov.uk

We anticipate these sessions will be very popular, and priority will be given to people who have not attended one of our introductory sessions before. Due to the limits of space, we regret it will not be possible to send more than one representative from the same organisation.
